52 Casualties in Another Viet Nam Ambush

By MALCOLM W. BROWNE

SAIGON, Viet Nam (AP)—A powerful Communist unit pounced on a South Vietnamese mechanized relief force late Wednesday, inflicting 54 casualties and destroying an armored vehicle with recoilless cannon.

The catch, about 25 miles northwest of Saigon, was the latest in a bloody series of one-day attacks on big government units.

Vietnamese officers estimated, however, that their forces killed 50 of the enemy. They captured one Communist gun, a 57MM recoilless cannon.

Seventeen government troops were killed, 34 were wounded and three were missing. Several U.S. advisors were involved in the firefight, but all were reported uninjured.

The fight began along a road as several hundred troops and about 25 amphibious personnel carriers were rushing from the Trungap ranger post to the defense of a beleaguered outpost.

The government force evidently was not caught by surprise, and was fighting as soon as first shots rang out.

The road runs near the edge of the Communist-controlled and densely jungled area north of Saigon that is called "D Zone."

The seesaw fighting continued until two hours after sunset. The government launched a new operation today, but no new contract was reported.

The government reported finding a mass grave containing the bodies of 42 Viet Cong guerrillas who had participated in the bloody attack on Cai Be Monday. In the course of the attack, 40 women and children were slaughtered, their quarters were burned to the ground, and about 20 defenders were killed.

The government also said today 70 Viet Cong had been killed in a Mekong River delta clash Tuesday, when Saigon troops moved to the defense of a Luoc outpost. Friendly troops reportedly lost 17 killed and 32 wounded.

Europe and Russia Rap Goldwater

By JOHN M. HIGHTOWER

WASHINGTON (AP)—The sharp debate over U.S. foreign policy which is developing in this year's presidential election campaign seems likely to excite more reaction in foreign countries than any American political dispute since the end of World War II.

Much of the European press has already expressed bitter criticism of the nomination of Sen. Barry Goldwater, assailing him as the leader of those who would change fundamental U.S. positions in world affairs.

Soviet Premier Khrushchev raised the operation to the summit level this week by denouncing both the Republican nominee and the platform on which he is running.

This kind of reaction by a foreign official is traditionally classified as interference in the internal affairs of the United States, and the diplomat who tries to quickly find himself in a similar position.

In 1888 British Ambassador Lord Sackville-West was sent home for taking sides in the contest between Grover Cleveland and Benjamin Harrison, and his fate is well remembered in the Washington diplomatic corps to this day.

But the rules that silence ambassadors do not operate for presidents and premiers, speaking from distant capitals.

Khrushchev told a Polish audience that the candidate put forward by the Republican party "made it clear that he wants to enter the White House under the slogans of unbridled anti-Communism and war threats."

He also asserted that the Republican platform, which he denounced as warlike, had been adopted "in an atmosphere reminiscent of the fascist gatherings in Nuremberg."

The big question raised among U.S. foreign policy officials who are always concerned with the aim of Khrushchev's maneuvers, is what he hopes to accomplish by an attack at this time.

Khrushchev has interfered in U.S. presidential politics before. In 1960 he spoke out against Republican nominee Richard M. Nixon. At that time Khrushchev had broken off friendly personal relations with President Dwight D. Eisenhower over the U2 plane incident, and he expressed his antagonism toward Nixon by identifying him with Eisenhower.

Diplomats here believe the present campaign debate on foreign policy probably will be more far reaching and involve more fundamental issues than any in the past 20 years.

Where the Communist problem is concerned, for example, the Johnson administration has been following a policy of trying to bring their willingness to make countries differently according to their willingness to make practical agreements with the United States. In the Kennedy-Johnson administration the out-sanding example of his policy is his limited nuclear test ban treaty signed with the Soviet Union last summer.

At present Miss Page is starring in a revival of Anton Chekhov's "The Three Sisters."

"So far I've played about 450 roles in my career," she said, "and I'd like to play at least that many more."

"Acting is so much fun. You learn of the character you're playing that you forget your own."

"Acting is also a joy because you never get through with it. You can never say, 'Well, at last I know it all.' In acting you never reach the bottom of the cup, particularly if you have the good fortune to play a variety of roles. There's always something more to learn."

Jerry is married to actor Rip Torn, and they have a 5-month-old daughter, Angelica. On Matinee days—which happens to be the maid's day off—Jerry brings the baby to the theater dressing room.

"I have a tendency not to fight things through. I sometimes chicken out before I ought to."

That made it all rather complicated, and I couldn't keep my arithmetic straight."

She quit her $21-a-week job in the bread factory for a part in an off-Broadway show for which she got $10 a week. Since then her name has brightened many marquees.

ABERDEEN, Scotland (AP)—

Prince Charles, eldest child of Queen Elizabeth II, was confined to a nursing home today with pneumonia. His condition was said to be not serious.

The prince was camping on the grounds of Balmoral Castle with a number of other boys from the Gordonstoun School he attends when he was taken ill.

He was rushed by car to the nursing home by Sir George Middleton, the royal doctor at Balmoral, and Dr. David Short, consultant physician at the Aberdeen Royal Infirmary.

The camping expedition for the prince and his schoolmates was part of the Gordonstoun summer curriculum. The school specializes in toughening its boys physically in addition to educating them.

Cream cakes, apparently spoiled by Budapest's 100-degree heat, are blamed for a wave of food poisoning in the Hungarian capital.

Colleges Are Turning Away Students

CHICAGO (AP)—Many colleges and universities are slamming their doors on thousands of applicants because of a lack of space.

But a survey by The Associated Press showed today there still is room in many other institutions of higher education, especially in less-populated states.

The survey indicated the school rush isn't so heavy as it seems. In some instances prospective students are playing sort of an academic parlay—applying, say, to three different colleges in the hope of getting into one of them.

A high school graduate seeking admission to the University of Massachusetts or to one of the 10 state colleges in the Bay State came up against odds of almost 5-1.

The university received 12,000 applications for 2,600 openings in the freshman class entering in September. The state colleges, primarily for teacher training, admitted 3,700 of 18,000 applicants.

Georgia Tech has closed its registration books. The University of Georgia did likewise May 4, the earliest cutoff date in its history. Emory University took similar action March 10.

Villanova University, for the first time, had to put a lid on applications for the freshman class.

The University of Rhode Island and Rhode Island College had to cease consideration of new applications in the spring.

Providence (R.I.) College rejected more than 1,000 requests for admission.

"In all divisions of Rutgers (New Brunswick, Newark, Camden) by Feb. 12 we had received 14,000 applications from fully qualified students," a spokesman said, "and yet have room for only 3,555 in the next freshman class. The men's colleges in New Brunswick cut off applications Feb. 15."

The University of Illinois has announced it may have to turn away 2,600 would-be students at its Urbana and Chicago campuses.

Dartmouth is rejecting applicants by the platoon.

In some schools, such as the University of Missouri, enrollment will be limited by a shortage of housing. In others, lack of adequate classroom facilities is a big factor.

But the biggest factor is that children born early in the post-war baby boom now are knocking on college gates.

The State University of New York, comprising 58 units scattered across the state has had to turn away students in recent years. It pointed out that it receives applications from young folks who apply simultaneously to several schools.

Scouts Meet Celebrities at Jamboree

The troop members presented their Scoutmasters, Jerry O'Neal of Hope, Porter Dowling of Foreman, and Dr. Charles Jones of DeQueen, with Boy Scout official campaign hats.

Many celebrities have appeared at the Jamboree. At a Press Conference, International Television and Recording Star Anita Bryant sang "Paper Roses" and "Till There Was You." She is working on a picture called "World For Lonely People." She says that the reason she does free performances for Scouts, clubs, etc., is that she loves people and performing in front of them.

Also at the Press Conference was James Whittaker, the Mt. Everest Climber. He conquered Everest on May 1st of this year. He says that his first thought on Everest was: "How to get down." Whittaker says that 50 per cent of the party had been Scouts previously. He says Scout helped him most in getting along with others for a long period of time.

Berserk Negro Gangs Loot Brooklyn Stores

By MALCOLM STEPHENSON

NEW YORK (AP)—Police shot and wounded four Negroes as racial rioting, looting and vandalism raged in Brooklyn through the night.

Police said the Negroes shot were accused of looting.

Several policemen were injured during the city's fifth straight night of racial violence.

Police counted 145 stores looted in the predominantly Negro Bedford-Stuyvesant section of Brooklyn. Marauders smashed store windows and ran off with anything they could carry.

Crowds of Negroes, jeering and hurling missiles at police, surged through the streets Wednesday night.

Steel-helmeted police fired volley after volley over the heads of the roving bands to break up the disorder.

In Manhattan, 500 white teenagers pelted Negro demonstrators outside police headquarters. A police charge broke up the mob.

Red Doesn't Like U. S. Politicians

WASHINGTON (AP)—Nikita

Khrushchev doesn't seem to like American politicians, at least while they're running for office. Once they're elected, though, he gets along all right with them, sometimes.

His attack on Sen. Barry Goldwater this week wasn't the first time he butted into American politics. He did the same in 1960 when he said the presidential candidates—John F. Kennedy and Richard M. Nixon—looked equally undesirable.

"They are a pair of boots," he said, meaning it was hard to tell them apart.

In Warsaw the Soviet Premier accused Goldwater, the Republican presidential candidate, of trying to "enter the White House under the slogans of unbridled anticommunism and war threats."

He likened last week's Republican convention which nominated Goldwater to a Nazi party rally.

Trav Homers Fail to Win Over Denver

DENVER (AP) — Arkansas bashed four home runs but Denver's singles pushed the Bears to an 8-6 Pacific Coast League triumph here Wednesday night.

Adolph Phillips hit two homers for Arkansas, and Norm Gigon and Wayne Graham each connected for one.

But limping Ernie Bowman struck a home run in a decisive single for Denver.

Singles by Sandy Alomar, Jim Coker, Pamel Galko and Jack Davis and a walk to Bubba Morton produced two Denver runs in the first inning.

Tommy Aaron homered behind a walk to Alomar and a single by Morton for three more in the second.

Arkansas' home run barrage tied it up in the sixth, and then Bowman's homer sent Denver into a 6-5 lead, and the Bears kept the lead the rest of the way.

Nothing Has Been Settled About Fight

LAS VEGAS, Nev. (AP) — A proposed title fight between middleweight king Joey Giardello and challenger Rubin Hurricane Carter Oct. 23 is "still a long way from being set," the promoter of the bout said Wednesday.

Mel (Red) Greb, who represents the Silver State Sports Club, said he and Michael Del Collo, Giardello's attorney, were "about $15,000 apart" in their negotiations over the guarantee.

Del Collo is asking $100,000 for Giardello.

Greb said $100,000 is all that is available for both fighters.

The promoter said Carter "is ready to go at any figure" but in fairness we have to give him at least $15,000.

This means either Del Collo must retreat to an $85,000 guarantee for Giardello "or somebody is going to have to come up with some more money," Greb said.

The promoter said the only source of more money would be Telescript Inc.—the firm which plans to put the fight on closed circuit television.

At present, Silver State has agreed to give $55,000 to the fighters from the live gate and

Gives Credit to Palmer and Nicklaus

HARTFORD, Conn. (AP) — It's only a matter of opinion from an authority, but Jay Hebert, the PGA Tournament Committee chairman, credits the tremendous interest in golf and the large galleries these days to Arnold Palmer and Jack Nicklaus.

Hebert, the 1960 PGA champion, says that "Palmer and Nicklaus have done more for golf in the past 10 years than anyone."

There probably are some other reasons, but not to Hebert. Relaxing in the locker room at the Wethersfield Country Club, latest stop on the major league play-for-pay tour, Hebert insists:

"It used to be that you could win a tournament with two good rounds. But Palmer and Nicklaus, more than anyone else, changed this. The winner of a tournament now has to shoot four good rounds."

Palmer and Nicklaus are passing up the $50,000 four-day Insurance City Open that started today at nearby Wethersfield.

But two other members of golf's newest aristocracy are competing — National Open champion Ken Venturi and National PGA champion Bobby Nichols along with Sam Snead and Billy Casper, last year's ICO winner.

In Wednesday's pro-amateur tourney, Jim Ferree and Rex Baxter Jr. shared first place with five-under-par 66s. Snead was second with 67 and seven pros tied for third place—Fred Hawkins, Terry Dill, Don Fairfield, Al Balding, George Archer, Larry Mowry and Al Besselin, all with 68s.

The liver which weighs from 3 to 4 pounds, is the largest gland in the human body.

Telescript has guaranteed $45,000.

Two former champions withdrew because of injuries. They are Sandra Raynie and Mary Lena Faulk. A third pro, Carol Mann, also did not enter.

Betsy Rawls and Kathy Cornelius, both former Cosmo winners, also are among leading contenders in a field of 32 pros and 15 amateurs. Althea Gibson, former Wimbledon tennis champ, also has filed an entry.

The tourney record is 208 by Miss Rawls.

Berserk Negro

police shots were fired. No streets were sealed off in the nation's largest Negro community, where violence had flared for four nights in a row following the fatal shooting of a 15-year-old Negro boy by a white police lieutenant.

Seventy-six Negroes were arrested Wednesday night and early today in Brooklyn's predominantly Negro Bedford-Stuyvesant section. Charges included felonious assault, looting, were smashed, and disorderly conduct.

Many in the Brooklyn crowds headed for home or other shelter when rain started late in the night.

The Brooklyn violence erupted less than three hours after Mayor Robert F. Wagner made a television and radio appeal for peace and declared: "Law and order are the Negro's best friend. The opposite of law and order is mob rule, the way of the Ku Klux Klan and the lynch mob."

The Democratic mayor, who interrupted a trip to Europe and flew home Tuesday, announced a program to end racial violence and promised increased efforts to end slum conditions, to recruit more Negroes for the police force and to review charges of police brutality.

Wagner later told newsmen that there is "some evidence" of Communist instigation of the racial rioting.

A jeering crowd of 500 white teen-agers threw eggs, bottles, stones and tin cans at about 200 Negro pickets outside city police headquarters in Manhattan Wednesday night.

A half-dozen pickets—allied with the Congress of Racial Equality—were hit by eggs.

The white teen-agers, who apparently were from the Italian-American neighborhood around police headquarters, shouted "Niggers go home" and "Communists must go."

Firecrackers popped at various spots in the neighborhood, adding to the tension.

Helmets police, waving night sticks, charged the white teen-agers. Other policemen escorted the Negro pickets to a subway station three blocks away. This march took 15 minutes, and at each cross street the whites hurled more missiles, striking the police as often as the pickets.

The fray left the streets around police headquarters strewn with broken glass and other debris.

RUSSELLVILLE, Ark. (AP) — Joe Hubbard of Russellville, a Democratic candidate for governor, said Wednesday he will make a televised speech from Little Rock Friday night.

He said he would speak between 8:30 p.m. and 9 p.m.

Hubbard said he would discuss campaign issues and would elaborate on why he was unavailable to newsmen for four days this week.

Bill Has Money for State Bases

WASHINGTON (AP) — Congressional action was completed Wednesday on a military construction bill that included $136,000 for work at Blytheville Air Force Base and $442,000 for work at Little Rock Air Force Base.

The bill was for a total of $1,534,994,000 in military construction, which was $13,102,000 more than authorized by the Senate before compromise.

of Pine Bluff.

Hart and Farrell were not injured, Beach said. Mrs. Hart was hospitalized here.

Bull Rider Just Third of Way

WINDOM, Minn. (AP)—Cowboy Carl Swanson is about a third of the way in his attempt to ride his Hereford bull, Randy, from border to border.

Swanson, 41, of Onamia, Minn., left International Falls, Minn., April 28 an expects to reach the Texas Gulf Coast next February.

Swanson says he is promoting the use of beef. His arrival in Windom Wednesday marked completion of about 500 miles of beef-on-the-hoof travel.

Crain-Hale Vows Exchanged July 11

One of the outstanding weddings of the summer season in West Memphis was held Saturday, July 11 at 11 a.m. when Miss Jeanie Hale, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James Cecil Hale of Marion, became the bride of William Steve Crain, son of Mr. and Mrs. Louis E. Crain of Hope.

The couple recited their vows at Holy Cross Episcopal Church with the Rev. W. A. Wilcox, Jr., pastor of St. Mark's Episcopal Church in Little Rock, officiating. A program of nuptial music was presented by Mrs. Milton Beck, organist.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore a wedding gown of candlelight bridal satin in which featured a fitted bodice with a scalloped neckline and long tapering sleeves. From the sculptured waistline developed a voluminous skirt with an Alencon lace motif highlighted by tiny seed pearls which cascaded into a chapel train. Her cascade veil of candlelight illusion fell from a headpiece of pearlized orange blossoms and pearls, and she carried a cascade bouquet of phalaenopsis orchids and stephanotis.

Miss Susan Alvey of Elizabethtown, Ky., was maid of honor, and bridesmaids were Miss Priscilla Peterson of Alton, Ill., Miss Pat Elliott of Fort Worth, Miss Claudia Heath, Miss Betty Myers, and Miss Betty Riggan, all of Marion. They wore identical floor-length sheath dresses of white organza over pink taffeta with embroidered floral bodices which had scalloped necklines and elbow-length sleeves. A ribbon band accented the waistline. Their headpieces were of pink organza and taffeta petals with matching illusion. They carried baskets of pastel pink Beauty asters.

John Crain of Hope was his brother's best man, and groomsmen included Joe Crain of Hope, brother of the bridegroom, Read Smith of El Dorado, James Cecil Hale, Jr. of West Memphis, and Ralph Robinson Hale of Marion, brothers of the bride, and John Minor of Corpus Christi, Texas.

A reception at Meadowbrook Country Club followed the ceremony with Mr. and Mrs. Hale as hosts. The club's ball room was transformed into a bridal setting. The buffet table for the serving of the brunch was draped with a white satin cloth and had a tiered floral arrangement. At one end was a silver service and at the other a silver punch bowl.

The round table holding the fountain from which champagne flowed was overlaid with a white satin cloth. A similar cloth with a white Guipure lace skirt was used on the cake table. Pink tapers in antique white cherub candelabra were used on either side of the cake.

Assisting with the serving were Mrs. Phil Omet of Jonesboro; Miss Kay Hart, Mrs. James Cecil Hale, Jr. of West Memphis; Miss Carolyn Faulkner of Mena; Miss Roberta Reeves, Miss Jane Bigger, and Mrs. Malcolm McAuley of Marion; and Mrs. David Wallace of Crawfordville.

After returning from a wedding trip to Florida and New Orleans, the couple is at home in Hope this summer. In the fall Mr. Crain will continue his studies at the U of A School of Law.

Koufax Boosts Record, Phils Keep Up Pace

By MIKE RATHET

Associated Press Sports Writer

Sandy Koufax Wednesday night tossed a four-hit, 12-strikeout job that beat Houston 1-0 and ended the Los Angeles Dodgers losing streak at four games.

Koufax now has won 11 games in a row since he last lost on May 27, boosting his record to 15-4 while his sixth shut lowered his earned run average to a remarkable 1.78.

Just as remarkable was the feat of Philadelphia's light-hitting Bobby Wine, a .205 swinger who slammed his second homer in two nights, a bases-empty shot off Warren Spahn that triggered the National League leading Phillies to a 4-1 victory over Milwaukee.

however, went to Pittsburgh's Bill Mazeroski and Willie Stargell. Mazeroski drove in five runs and Stargell hit for the cycle with a single, double, triple and homer as the Pirates lashed 18 hits and crushed St. Louis 13-2.

Elsewhere, the second-place San Francisco Giants remained one game off the pace by beating the Chicago Cubs 7-3 but the third-place Cincinnati Reds fell 4½ games back by losing their fifth straight to the New York Mets, 4-3 in 10 innings.

The American League leading New York Yankees defeated Washington, 6-3, Cleveland downed Baltimore 7-4, the Los Angeles Angels edged the Chicago White Sox 3-2, Kansas City whipped Minnesota 6-4 and Detroit outslugged Boston 8-6.

Koufax, who struck out 10 or more batters in a game for the 58th time in his career, had to be at his best against Houston's Ken Johnson, who allowed only seven hits before he left for a pinch hitter in the eighth.

The lone Dodger run came across in the third when Derrell Griffith and Ron Fairly smacked doubles.

Wine, who hit a homer Tuesday night before singling home the decisive run, got the job done again for the Phillies by breaking a 1-1 tie with his homer in the seventh inning. The Braves only run came on a homer by Spahn off Ray Culp, 8-5.

Mazeroski batted in a run with a sacrifice fly in the first, doubled home two runs in the seventh and hit a two-run homer in the ninth. Stargell contributed three runs batted in with his 4-for-4 performance while Jerry Lynch came up with the same run production on a homer and single.

Bob Veale got the victory, his 11th against six losses. The loser was Roger Craig, 5-5. Home runs by Hal Lanier and Orlando Cepeda did most of the damage for the Giants. Lanier hit a three-run shot in the fifth and Cepeda connected with one on in the sixth — both homers opposite field hits off Larry Jackson, 12-8.

Billy Pierce checked the Cubs on two hits in four innings of

Victory Keeps Yankees in First Place

By MURRAY CHASS

Associated Press Sports Writer

Which major league team has the best record since June 15?

It's the Los Angeles Angels, who moved into sole possession of fourth place in the AL

Wednesday night with a 3-2 triumph over the Chicago White Sox.

The Angels, one of the zaniest collections of major leaguers

since St. Louis' Gas House

Gang, were lodged in ninth place June 15 with a poor record of 24-37. Since then, they have won 26 and lost 11, a lofty percentage of .703.

For their latest victory, though, they needed the aid of a couple of pitches from knuckle ball artist Hoyt Wilhelm. The Angels trailed 2-1 entering the ninth inning.

Jim Fregosi singled with one out, trotted to second when Wilhelm hit Willie Smith with a pitch and scored the tying run on a single by Bob Rodgers.

One out later, with Lou Clinton at bat, Wilhelm uncorked a pitch that got away from catcher J. C. Martin for a passed ball, and Smith scampered home with the winning run.

In other AL games, New York defeated Washington 6-3, Cleveland knocked off Baltimore 7-4,

Kansas City trimmed Minnesota

6-4 and Detroit outlasted Boston

8-6.

In the National League, Philadelphia defeated Milwaukee 4-1,

San Francisco whipped Chicago

7-3, New York nipped Cincinnati

4-3 in 10 innings, Pittsburgh bombed St. Louis 13-2 and Los Angeles edged Houston 10-

The White Sox grabbed a 20

lead in the first inning on run-scoring doubles by Don Buford and Pete Ward. But Fred Newman settled down and at one stretch retired 17 straight Chicago batters. Joel Horlen allowed the Angels only three hits before leaving for Wilhelm in the eighth.

The Yankees managed only four hits against the Senators, but all came in the fifth inning

when they erupted for five runs, the last three on Joe Pepitone's cisco, 29; Williams, Chicago, 23.

Stolen bases — Wills, Los Angeles, 31; Brock, St. Louis, 21.

"DEAR ABBY"

OFFERED IN GOOD FAITH!

By Abigail Van Buren
Dear Abby: Our son spent a year at the State University and now he thinks he is ready to educate his parents. This is what happened. He met a very high-class girl, and before she would introduce him to her family she gave him some lessons in table manners. This girl and her parents are motoring through our town this summer and they plan to stop here to meet us. Our son offered to give his mother and me a few pointers in table manners like this girl gave him. I told him over my dead body. What is your opinion of: (A) a girl who would give a young man lessons on how to eat; (B) a young man who would suggest giving his parents the same lessons?

KNOWS HOW TO EAT
Dear Abby: (A) Apparently the girl thought your son needed the lessons, and she liked him well enough to teach him. I admire her. (B) Your son is well-motivated in offering to teach you. If you don't care to learn, that's your business. But don't get sore about it. The girl's parents probably know that table manners aren't everything—as you do.

Dear Abby: I don't drive a car, never have, and all my friends know it so, naturally, I must depend on others for rides. Whenever there is a club meeting, church doings, or something my friends know I want to attend, why must I call them and beg a ride? Don't you think they should call me and offer a ride? It seems, around here, if you don't ask, you don't go.

NOT PUSHY
Dear Abby: Most people are too preoccupied with their own business to guess who needs a ride. And unless you ask, they have no way of knowing. Don't be so sensitive. If you need a ride, call whomever you think is going and ask for a ride. If you are pleasant, prompt and appreciative, and do not take them out of their way, I am sure that you will be welcome.

Dear Abby: A couple who lived in our neighborhood recently split up. When the wife left she took everything that wasn't nailed down, including all the linen, kitchen utensils, appliances, you name it. Last week one of our neighbors called and invited us to a shower for the husband! She said she thought it would be nice if we all got together and helped to put him back into housekeeping. Abby, have you ever heard of giving a MAN a shower because his wife left and took everything?

SHOCKED
Dear Abby: No. What this country needs is a good all-purpose umbrella to protect us against showers.

Confidential To "K"
Dear Abby: Don't wait too long for a 38-year-old "boy" whose mother still waits up for him.

Leveling Off of Interest Paid Out

By SAM DAWSON
AP Business News Analyst

NEW YORK (AP)—The fast climb in time deposits and savings accounts that has made this business upswing different from most others has slowed down. And so has the rise in interest rates paid for savings. Bankers think that the high yields to be had now on various short-term investments here, and even higher returns abroad, may mark a leveling off or softening of interest to be paid savers.

Also tending to have the same result is the easing in the mortgage markets. Investment fund supplies are exceeding demand for new mortgages in many regions. As mortgage charges have eased a bit, so has the rate which the lending institutions can pay for savings that form the pool from which the money or mortgages come.

This may be one of the reasons many bankers have been urging the Federal Reserve Board to modify the easy money policies followed with little variation through most of the present business upswing. The American Bankers Association has suggested the board might think twice about keeping money easy if the business upturn approaches boom stage.

The ABA, however, has opposed any moves to increase the 4 per cent limit the Federal Reserve places on interest on time deposits in commercial banks. Many small banks aren't paying that much, anyway, saying they can't afford to in their business. They'd hate to see savings siphoned off by much higher interest rates paid elsewhere.

Many mutual savings banks have offered more than 4 per cent. And some savings and loan associations, especially in the West, have been offering close to 5 per cent in dividends to get funds for the mortgage market there.

The rise in the total of time deposits in the commercial banks has been a phenomenon of this expansion period, the Federal Reserve Bank of St. Louis notes in its July Review.

Previously such forms of savings rose rapidly during recessions and then tapered off during the expansions that followed. In the 1953-54 recession, time deposits grew at an annual rate of 10 per cent, but dropped to a 6 per cent increase in the following upswing. In the 1957-58 slump the growth rate of bank deposits was 15 per cent at an annual rate, with a drop to 5 per cent when times turned good again.

In the last recession, 1960-61, the annual growth rate of time deposits was 15 per cent. But when business turned upward in 1961, time deposits continued to grow at an annual rate of 14 per cent until mid-1963.

This year there has been a slackening. Commercial banks are now reporting gains in time deposits at a 7 per cent annual rate. The St. Louis bank thinks one cause is higher rates paid by mutual savings banks and other savings institutions. And of late, money market rates, especially abroad, have firmed.

EDITORS NOTE—Season after season, producer Allen Funt and his band of pixies continue to dream up strange and wonderful practical jokes, hide cameras and record the baffled, angry, shocked or amazed reactions of "Candid Camera's" fall guys. Here Funt attempts to pick the half-dozen sequences which he, personally found most amusing.

By ALLEN FUNT
For Cynthia Lowry

NEW YORK (AP)—Picking a half-dozen favorite sequences of "Candid Camera" from the many hundreds recorded isn't easy. It has meant prodding memory and mentally reconstructing innumerable humorous moments.

As the creator and executive producer of the program naturally, I'm inclined to be partial to most of the sequences shown on air. I wish I were asked to choose my favorite hundred preferences—two hundred. That would have been better. But here are six that I, personally, favor.

One incident involved a junkyard car which we bought and stripped of its motor. With Dorothy Lamour in the driver's seat, the car was towed to the top of a hill and allowed to roll down to a gas station. She asked the attendant to fill the gas tank and check the oil. When he discovered that there was no engine under the hood, the fun began.

In another episode, a speaker and microphone were concealed in a mailbox. One of the recorded conversations was particularly outstanding because a man was deeply engrossed in a conversation with the "talking mailbox" when he noticed a passer-by eyeing him very curiously. At the same time, the mailbox became silent and the man assumed a sheepish look. Another favorite was a sequence where we synchronized a symphonic selection to coincide with the arm and leg movements of several infants. This gave the impression that the infants were conducting the score.

For another of our sequences, we used a specially constructed station wagon. Dorothy Collins was the driver and she would stop the car and ask a man to sit in the back seat to listen for an unusual rattle. Then she drove on a bit and, unseen by her passenger, she pressed a button and the car split in half, leaving the rear of the car standing as she drove off in the front half.

One of the most delightful episodes took place in a diner. The entire "Candid Camera" staff was installed there. Dorothy Collins was a waitress, the orchestra were patrons who concealed their musical instruments and I was a customer seated at the counter. One of the Americans Accused by Russians

MOSCOW (AP)—A Soviet newspaper has accused foreign tourists, including two Americans, of trying to smuggle religious literature into the Soviet Union.

The Communist government here publishes atheistic literature and seeks to eliminate religion, although the Russian Orthodox Church claims that almost a quarter of the Soviet Union's 226 million people are believers.

The report appeared in last Sunday's issue of Soviet Byelorussia, a newspaper published in Minsk, 420 miles west of Moscow. The newspaper reached Moscow today.

The report denounced Jehovah's Witnesses, accusing them of trying to work in Communist countries "against the idea of peaceful coexistence and peace in the world."

Goldwater's Views on Key Issues

In Dallas on June 15, Goldwater said: "In the United Nations, this administration's inaptitude has permitted dangerous drift and decay to set in."

"The United Nations, to serve its great original purposes, needs a strong American vote to speak up for the demands of responsibility to speak against tyranny and chaos. A Republican administration would provide that voice."

In Santa Barbara, Calif. on May 27, Goldwater said he would see no advantage in U.S. membership if Red China were admitted under the present charter. He said the charter should be revised "so we can handle the contingency of Red China."

Goldwater was asked in Globe, Ariz., on Feb. 14 whether he wants to pull out of the United Nations if Red China is admitted. "I don't think we'd have the courage to do it, but at least I can suggest it," he said.

"We must stay in the United Nations but we must make it better," he said in Meredith, N.H., on Jan. 23.

"If we live up to the spirit of the United Nations and are honorable people, Red China can't be admitted because this is an aggressor nation," he said in Moultonboro, N.H., the same day.

In Laconia, N.H., also on Jan. 23, Goldwater said if Red China won admission he "would be inclined" to campaign for U.S. withdrawal.

"I don't think it would be a safe place for us," he said. "If we reaffirm that we're not going to admit aggressor nations that takes care of Red China right now. But if we're going to let Red China in we might as well tear up the papers and forget about it."

In Keene, N.H., on Jan. 22, Goldwater said of Red Chinese admission: "My objections go to an enemy of peace being allowed in a body that was formed for peace."

"It's foolish," he said. "It's like inviting Al Capone to a Sunday evening social."

At Concord, N.H., on Jan. 27, Goldwater was asked whether he advocated U.S. withdrawal from the United Nations.

"I've never said that in my life except with the qualification of if Red China is admitted," he said.

On Nov. 3, 1963, he said if Red China gained membership, "I don't see how we could live in the United Nations."

In Belmont, Mass., on June 13, 1962, Goldwater said he could see "no reason to continue our participation" in the United Nations. "The idea was wonderful but the world is not ready for it," he said.

On Dec. 21, 1961, Goldwater said at Phoenix he had come to the "reluctant conclusion" that the United States no longer had a place in the United Nations. He pointed to the U.N. action in Katanga and India's invasion of Goa.

"I would not have had the Red China were admitted," he said. "Now I think just as great a disaster has taken place."

UNITED NATIONS

Goldwater made this statement on the United Nations in responding on July 5 to an Associated Press questionnaire: "I would, at the very least, issue a warning—in the following terms: For 19 years now, the Communists have held the United Nations in contempt. They have repeatedly undermined its operations and its principles. Should the Red Chinese now, in effect, shoot their way in, the charter would be all but a dead letter. In that event, the United States—in our own best interests, and for the good of the original United Nations idea—would be forced to undertake a serious reassessment of its basic commitments."

"The first necessity for strengthening the United Nations, in my judgment, is to look critically at voting procedures. Some form of weighted voting may have to be seriously considered as a way of bringing the United Nations into line with new world realities. Many responsible authorities have suggested a system based on population, of contributions to U.N. costs, or on some combination of factors. I do not have the final solution. But this is one of the major problems that must be considered in assessing the U.N.'s future as both a representative and a responsible organization."

"I criticize the United Nations—because it is not all that it should be. Even so, it is a useful forum. It can still provide machinery for valuable conciliation among nations. But I want to see the United Nations do more. I want to see it come closer to achieving its real goals. It can do so, only when all of its members live up to the spirit of the charter, which many of them—obviously—are not doing now. I have in mind, particularly, the charter's definition of 'peace-loving' nations and the obligations of membership. These include moral as well as financial obligations."

"I support, unconditionally, the purpose of the United Nations was originally intended to serve—peace among nations, based on mutual tolerance, respect for the sovereign independence of all nations, and a common sense of justice."

"I believe the United States should make the fullest possible use of its membership in the United Nations as one means of achieving these goals. It is a useful forum."

WELFARE

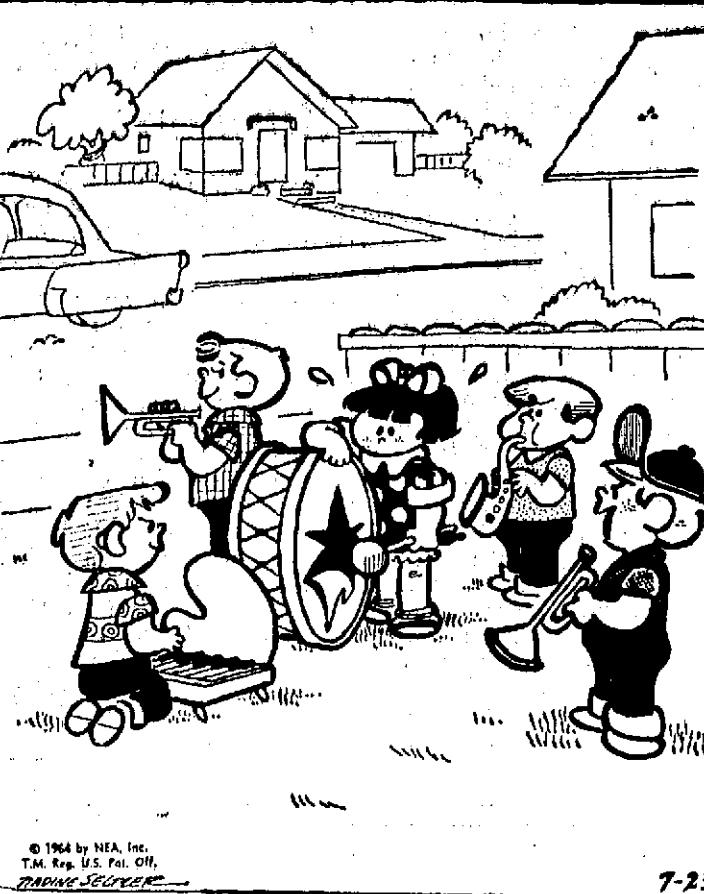

In a campaign booklet issued late in June, Goldwater said U.S. society can best secure its people against want "by encouraging initiative, by guaranteeing equal opportunity, and by preserving for our states and localities—and for every citizen—the resources they must have to meet their own needs as they see fit."

"Welfare programs, at whatever level, provide basic floors of protection," he said. "They must never supplant the widely shared prosperity of a dynamic free enterprise economy."

"The federal government will never say no to the needy," Goldwater said at Stockton, Calif., on March 18. But Goldwater added he fears the Democrats are going to "create a class of equality of poverty."

SWEETIE PIE

By Nadine Seltzer

"Now maybe we can hear some of the other instruments for a change!"

"We can cut down on poverty," he said. "We can cut down the welfare problem by the creation of more jobs, but the government can't do it."

In Ossipee, N.H., on Jan. 23, he said: "I suggest that whether we like it or not we're going to have poverty with us until the end of time. The opposition has the strange and dangerous idea that the federal government can not only end poverty but can create jobs."

"You're not going to attack poverty by just having an equality of poverty," he said in Peterborough, N.H., on Jan. 22. "What you have to do is let the free enterprise system work more freely."

In New York on Jan. 15, Goldwater urged that able-bodied men on relief be put to work for their relief checks. "There are community projects aplenty that could be powered this way, getting jobs done which otherwise would not be done, and getting the done without gaudy new federal programs," he said.

Goldwater called for a study of the causes of poverty to find out "whether the attitude or the action of the small group not participating in the general prosperity has anything to do with the situation."

In "The Conscience of a Conservative," Goldwater said: "Let welfare be a private concern. Let it be promoted by individuals and families, by churches, private hospitals, religious service organizations, Community charities and other institutions that have been established for this purpose."

Cuba's New Economic Director

HAVANA (AP)—President Osvaldo Dorticos assumed No. 1 status in Cuba's economic picture today with the announcement that he had taken over duties of minister of the economy and chairman of the Economic Planification Board.

A government announcement said Dorticos was replacing Regino Boti, who was being "liberated" of those responsibilities and would be given another position.

The sudden change was not explained.

Dorticos thus controls planning of the Cuban economy. He already had been chairman of the Commission for the Economy of the United Party of the Socialist Revolution.

The Dorticos appointment is the second unexpected Cuban Cabinet shift concerning economic duties this month. Alberto Mora, minister for who was fishing with him, was hit by the same flash but suffered only minor burns.

Decision on Rights Suit Is Pondered

ATLANTA, Ga. (AP)—A three-judge federal panel ponders a decision today in the first court tests of the recently enacted Civil Rights Act.

The tests involve a restaurant owner who contends the law is foreign commerce, was "liberated" early in July and replaced by Marcelo Fernandez, then president of the National Bank of Cuba.

No explanation was given for Fernandez' appointment.

illegal and does not apply to him, and a motel owner, who wants to bar the government from enforcing it.

Two separate suits are involved. They were heard by the same three-judge panel.

The suit against restaurant owner Lester Maddox was filed by three Negroes who were newspapers and television star.

More Maddox turned the Negroes away July 3, he notified newspapers an television stations that something was about to happen.

Thus, the government was able to introduce film and sound tapes at the hearing. The film showed Maddox brandishing a pistol at other white persons stood by with ax handles.

Interstate commerce is the crux of the issue in the suit against Maddox.

The civil rights law applies to businesses serving or offering to serve interstate travelers and having received a substantial portion of their goods through interstate commerce.

Thirteen wholesale grocery and meat dealers testified at the Maddox hearing completed Monday. They said that between 50 and 92 per cent of their goods came from other states.

Maddox, who did not testify, said earlier that it is his policy not to serve Negroes and that his policy will continue, since he considers this to be his constitutional right. Attorneys for Maddox contend the public accommodations section of the law is illegal and that the restaurant is, in any event, excluded. The court has been asked to enjoin Maddox against refusing service to Negroes. The three-judge panel also has under consideration an $11-million suit against the U.S. government brought by the Heart of Atlanta Motel Corp., seeking an injunction against enforcement of the law. The government filed a countersuit to force compliance.

Greeks Being Taken Out of Turkey

By HAL MCCLURE

ISTANBUL, Turkey (AP)—They impatiently wait each morning for the doors of the old Greek consulate to open. They crowd into the vaulted ante room, quietly talking, arguing or occasionally crying.

They are Greek citizens ordered to leave Turkey.

Many of them were born in Turkey. Many have never even visited Greece.

So far, Turkey has ordered more than 800 of Istanbul's estimated 9,000 Greek nationals to pack up and leave. The Greek community believes all will be forced to go eventually.

The deportation, which began last March, has sent shock waves through the estimated 50,000 Turkish citizens of Greek descent residing in the greater Istanbul area.

They fear some kind of reprisals against them also. The Turkish government denies this, saying that as Turkish citizens they enjoy full citizenship rights and protection under the constitution.

The Turkish government denies that the Cyprus conflict has any direct connection with the evacuation orders. The expelled Greeks have been engaging in activities detrimental to national interests, the Turks charge.

Greek officials laugh at this. Sources close to the Greek consulate say the first lists of 409 included nine persons over 8 years old, 92 over 70 and five deceased.

The Greek national usually has a week to settle his affairs and depart. He is permitted to take his clothing, 200 Turkish lira—about $22—plus his transportation ticket.

He must leave his home, his furniture, his business. His bank accounts are blocked, his safe-deposit vaults are sealed. He must pay his 1964 income tax.

The trouble is, say the Greeks, no one wants to buy their businesses. Or if they do, the price offered is ridiculous. The government, in effect, assumes control.

"This anti-Greek policy is suicide for Turkey," says one high-placed Greek who declined use of his name. "Turkey needs financial aid from the rest of the world now. She needs new investment. But who would want to invest money in Turkey if she continues to follow this antibusiness, xenophobic policy?"

A Turkish government spokesman said this charge was baseless.

"On the contrary," he said, "the Turkish economy incurred great losses through fortunes smuggled out of Turkey by Greek nationals through unlawful channels."

"We did the same thing in

A REAL DO-IT-YOURSELFER—Norman Dickinson of Essex, Conn., happened to have two bicycles, a bunch of sprockets and chains and a gasoline engine in his basement. So he tinkered a little and presto: one "bikemobile." This vehicle carries two persons, can travel up to 30 m.p.h. and is a lot more comfortable than a bicycle.

Athens when the Greek economy seemed in danger," a Greek says. "The Greeks would keep their money here if it had a chance to make a profit."

The Greeks say the Turks also have been harassing the community in many ways, including newspaper attacks, breaking windows in some Greek homes and schools, anti-Greek signs chalked on walls, threatening letters, and measures taken against the Eastern Orthodox patriarchate and Greek private schools.

The Greek nationals have many friends among the Turks who express sympathy for their predicament. But the Turks claim the Greeks have been trying to get the best of both worlds—living in Istanbul, which is cheaper than Athens, and avoiding military service of both countries.

Bob Thomas at the Movies

By BOB THOMAS

AP Movie-Television Writer
HOLLYWOOD (AP)—Italian-born, Brooklyn reared Jose Greco, whose flashing feet have danced over half the world, is facing his dramatic debut in films and he says he is scared.

"Sure, I've been performing since I was a kid," he remarked, "but it has always been dancing. Now I'm supposed to play dramatic scenes. How do I know I can handle them?"

Greco is one of the passengers on Stanley Kramer's "Ship of Fools," and the producer-director picked him on sight. That worries the dancer, too. He recalled his first interview with Kramer.

"I went into his office and he took one look at me and said to an assistant, 'He'll be all right.' So far Greco has done little in the month's shooting besides dance and stand in the back ground. His dramatic scenes are coming up soon. If physical condition mean anything, he'll be ready."

"Guess how old I am," he challenged. I hazarded the late 30s, and he confessed: 46. He added that he could outrun any of the 30 dancers in his troupe, most of them in their early 20s. For two decades his weight has remained a constant 149 pounds. This was a revelation to a constant dieter who watched him sail through a lunch of lentil soup, pot roast and potato pancakes with a couple of glasses of beer.

"I eat this way all the time," he explained. "With my kind of dancing I burn up the carbohydrates. I do 10 dances at each performance, and it takes a lot of fuel to keep that up."

Jose Greco's dancing has been a sensation for the past dozen years wherever he has toured, and that includes most countries of North and South America and Europe, this side of the Iron Curtain. As soon as he finishes "Ship of Fools," he takes his company to South Africa.

Flamenco dancing has been around for a long time, but it took Jose Greco to make it really pay; his annual gross: A half-million dollars.

Greco now travels most of the year, maintaining an apartment in Madrid and a villa in southern Spain, where he is affectionately termed "The gypsy from New York."

Cross-country flight of a U.S. Navy F8U jet plane in 3 hours, 23 minutes and 8.4 seconds was termed "Operation Bullet."

Leon Trotsky was exiled to Kazakhstan province, 2,000 miles from Moscow, when he lost his power struggle with Stalin.

Only Thing Was to Snub Tshombe

An AP News Analysis.

EDITOR'S NOTE — Veteran AP correspondent Lynn Heinzerling won the 1961 Pulitzer Prize for pioneer reporting of the Congo crisis. Now chief of AP's African operations, he attended the African summit conference in Cairo this week.

By LYNN HEINZERLING
CAIRO (AP) — Africa's kings, presidents and premiers probably did nothing more significant in their five days of oratory here than their snub of Premier Moise Tshombe of the Congo.

By that single act, the African leaders who finished their second summit meeting Tuesday threw their program for overthrowing the Portuguese rulers of Angola into jeopardy.

It is difficult to assess the accomplishments of the second summit meeting of the Organization of African Unity. The final communiqué was so vague that it is difficult to pinpoint anything.

The government heads were so shielded from newsmen and conference sources were so meager with real information that it was impossible to determine how deep the discussions went.

But the rejection of Tshombe was unmistakable. Prodded by President Kwame Nkrumah of Ghana and President Ahmed Ben Bella of Algeria, the preparatory session of foreign ministers declared the Congolese premier's presence was undesirable. Congolese President Joseph Kasavubu boycotted the conference in retaliation.

The Congo is the seat of the revolutionary Angolan government-in-exile headed by Holden Roberto. It is a staging ground for guerillas who have infiltrated northern Angola, the Congo's southern neighbor.

Whatever Tshombe did as leader of the Katanga secession, he has become one of the Congo's authentic leaders, and will have to be reckoned with.

The Congo is the most strategically placed nation in Africa for any move against Angola, and the Congo does not win much by alienating its neighbor.

Only about half of Katanga's rich copper exports can be shipped abroad over the Congo's own transportation system. The rest must move through Angola and Mozambique.

Tshombe and Kasavubu cannot be enchanted by the idea of cutting out these export channels for a group of African leaders who humiliated them.

If the Congo ever succeeds in quieting its spear-throwing tribes and bringing a degree of sophistication to its belligerent politicians, it will become one of the two or three richest states in Africa. It will not have to submit to the intervention in its political life to which it has been subjected in the past.

The fact that Roberto is turning to Moscow, Prague and Peking in search of money and weapons may also have a sobering effect on the Congolese and other Africans.

Give John and Gretta Clarida of Hot Springs a few rough-cut pine logs, a bit of land and some tools, and they'll come up with a completely furnished house, plus a gift shop.

SILK STOCKING SECRETARY

By John Howard

"Jan, dear, I have one request before you become my wife."

Across their tea-cups in the Gull Room on New England's stormy coast, Quincy Wilson gazed on Jan Hardy, radiant under the candle light.

The foreign service had bored her. Presently she was inactive, deciding whether to make a full-time job of being Quincy's wife, or whether professional activity should be added for a fuller life.

"What is your desire, Quincy?" Jan's warmth melted Quincy to the point of hesitation, but he managed to remember his lines.

"I want you to be my secretary."

"But Quincy!" "Yes, I know," Quincy hastened to elaborate, "Arnold Gruffhorn won't consent to a secretary on the budget. But Windmill Hosiery is the loser. That publicity job is getting out of hand. I need more than a secretary!"

"You couldn't pay me out of your own salary!" Jan wondered if her fiancé was out of his mind.

"Windmill will pick up your tab. But it calls for strategy," Quincy was gaining confidence.

ly assembled a six room house. The feat was made harder by John's handicap — he has only one hand.

Gretta, the artist of the family, makes items to sell in the gift shop. She has made and shipped wooden plates all over the nation.

She has sketched a new addition to the gift shop—to be in the shape of a vase with handles on each side. It will actually be a large room with a sunken tropical garden.

She had planned to put a huge globe in front of the place, but the New York World's Fair beat her to it. "Now if I did it," she said, "people would say I copied the idea."

It probably happens every day, but a Little Rock girl was still overjoyed to discover she had picked just the right time to ask the age-old question, "How old am I?"

The answer came, seven years, seven months, and seven days.

A little closer figuring proved that at the moment she was also eight hours older, but that didn't matter.

Beef, Pork, Poultry Good for Outdoors

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Beef, pork and poultry for outdoor eating are hot-weather features at the nation's groceries this weekend.

One national chain features ribs of beef at 65 cents a pound in its New York outlets and boneless chuck roasts at 65.

Corned beef and ground beef are two other widely featured summertime items.

Pork prices have drifted upward in some areas, but loin roasts, spareribs, and hams are still considered good buys in many shops.

Broiler-fryers are big items in the Midwest and spottily in other areas.

Supplies of fresh vegetables remain ample. Green beans, cabbage, celery, corn, cucumbers, lettuce, onions, green peppers and tomatoes are among top features.

Among fresh fruits, California's giant plum crop holds the spotlight. Other items include bananas, blueberries, cantaloupes, cherries, lemons, nectarines, peaches and watermelon.

Tigers do not climb trees, but, when pressed by fear, as during a flood, they have been known to do so.

"Sometimes," said Quincy, "executives get too conservative for their own good. As soon as you are on the job you'll make yourself indispensable."

"And how do I make myself indispensable to Windmill?" Jan was far from convinced.

"First, you will prepare a directive to Gruffhorn," explain that I assigned you to plan a promotional stunt for Windmill, outlined as follows.

Jan was irked by the presumptuous approach.

"You won't need notes. Just say we propose to invite the manager of every New England department store to an old-fashioned New England clam bake!" Quincy's ammunition had now been fired.

"You're convinced that New Englanders go for New England clam bakes?" Jan was not.

"They should," Quincy sat back and waited. Jan sat back, too. The candles flickered. Quincy wavered inside.

Suddenly Jan's eyes brightened. She leaned forward and whispered, "It's a go!"

Jan Hardy reported for work. In two hours the intrigue had been maneuvered without a hitch. By mid-morning Quincy summoned Jan. "You can plant that directive now. Just to remind you. . . . Windmill is the only plant that pushes pure silk. Don't forget. Now good luck!"

At five, Quincy and Jan were tidying up. Jan's phone jangled.

When she hung the face was pale. Gruffhorn wants the office at once. "Oh, gosh! Suppose get back in the foreign office!" Quincy reeled. Jan grabbed him by the arm. "Come on!"

Gruffhorn peered through the door at the detour spectacles at the office on his desk. "Both of you," Quincy responded as though Quincy frames into the chair.

"This directive . . . dy? It's magnificent! of inviting the wives of the land department store to a Windmill windmill. . . . But I have two millions. First, would you ing me what is Snylon?"

"That, sir, is to be hosiery; 50 per cent silk per cent nylon!" As Jan Quincy imagined he was ing out of the office on and knees.

Theater Is Important to Community

By LARRY H. PHIPPS

OKLAHOMA CITY, Okla. (AP) — The converted warehouse at 1108 W. Main in Oklahoma City is the unpretentious site of an ambitious dream to make resident theater as important an element of community culture here as it is in Europe. Once inside the double doors, you enter a world created and maintained by the Mummies, a semiprofessional acting company which borrowed its name from the roving acting groups of 14th century England. "Our driving force," declares Mack Scism, the theater's energetic director, "is the desire to make the resident, repertory theater a basic part of the community's cultural and social life."

Scism, 36, has been with the group since its beginning in 1949 and became its full-time director in 1950.

There was a similarity between the acting group which held its first season in a second-hand circus tent on an open lot, and the Mummies of old.

"That summer," Scism reflects, "the wind blew so much we spent rehearsals holding the script in one hand and a corner of the tent with the other."

Civic groups picked the theater as "unwholesome" and a "public nuisance."

"The publicity made people curious enough to come see us," he said.

"The next season we moved into a more protected spot at Will Rogers Park," Scism said.

"The trees kept the wind away, but about half of our performances were rained out because the top of the tent kept tearing."

The next year found them playing to audiences in the Municipal Auditorium.

They only had part-time use and were forced to keep props mobile and at a minimum.

The group's flexibility came in handy when it took on the job of turning an unused warehouse into a theater.

The stage consists of a cleared area in the center of the room surrounded by tiers of rising seats.

Scism's determination was given a boost in 1959 by a $10,000 Ford Foundation grant to spend a year visiting theaters in Europe, Canada and the United States.

The Mummies are also participating in another Ford-financed venture, the Theater Communications Group, with eight college and 15 community theater bodies.

Scism says he hopes the group can nurture dying theater crafts such as wig making and costuming—crafts now restricted largely to Europe.

Next season will see the Mummies well along toward becoming a professional instead of a semiprofessional company.

The eight-play schedule will

Hope Student Writes About Trip Abroad

SPRINGFIELD, MO. — "Everything in England is too small," Albert Hargis, son of Mr. and Mrs. A. L. Hargis, Hope, writes from London.

Hargis, a May graduate of Evangel College, is a member of the Evangel wind ensemble and male chorus, which has just completed a five-weeks concert tour of Europe. The ensemble and chorus have now returned to the U. S. and are giving concerts en route home. They are expected to return to the Evangel campus Monday, July 20.

Hargis says he likes the way the English speak and it isn't difficult to understand them once you get the hang of it. The people he met in Holland told him they could understand Americans better than English.

"I personally prefer American food, but I like English breakfasts and the idea of tea before bed," Hargis comments.

Among the sights Hargis visited in London were the Old Curiosity Shop, Tower of London, Big Ben, Buckingham Palace, and the houses of parliament.

While in England the musicians had their first contact with the teenage gangs, the Mods and the Rockers. At the concert in Manchester a number of youths appeared, but they were orderly.

When the wind ensemble and male chorus left London they were told that passenger reservations were booked but no space for the instruments had been reserved. The airline promised to get the instruments to Amsterdam by Tuesday. However, the ensemble and chorus were scheduled for concerts in three locations between the time the personnel were to land in Amsterdam and the time the instruments were promised.

Tour manager Grant Wacker spent much time on the telephone and the company finally agreed to let them have the air freight space for the instruments. The passengers were all strapped in their seats and the pilot had given the customary greeting over the intercom. Then they waited and waited. People were getting quite impatient.

After a few more minutes the pilot announced, "We are having problems with our baggage." The students looked out the window and saw, spread over the ground, all the instruments with workmen trying to stuff them in. One exasperated employee placed a well-aimed kick in the side of the tuba case. They then run 41 weeks instead of 32, and the acting company will be expanded by players who will devote their time to stage roles and not double as office personnel and prop and costume makers.

The Mummies have a $1,250,000 Ford grant and community donations of well over $750,000 to build a new home.

Redwoods Attract Tourists

Driving to California this year? You won't want to miss the experience of camping among the redwoods in one of the 27 State Redwood Parks and visiting the Muir Woods National Monument along the 400 miles of Northern California Coast from South of Monterey to the Oregon Border. Most of the parks are reached easily from U.S. 101. Many have camping and picnic facilities. Altogether they include more than 170 redwood groves and a total of more than a hundred thousand acres of redwood preserves. With other government holdings, State and Federal, there are 227,000 acres of redwood forest in public ownership. For a handy little guide to travel and camping in the Redwood Region, write to the California Redwood Association, 617 Montgomery Street, San Francisco, California 94111. unloaded the suitcases and brought them into the plane loaded our instruments, and the plane was off.

The concerts were given on schedule!

When the ensemble and chorus gave their concert in the Hague, Holland, they noticed an empty box seat in the opera house and were told it was always reserved for the Queen. However, she was not one of the 1,500 people attending that night.

In Norway many of the students from the Midwest said the country reminded them of Minnesota. The musicians visited the Oslo city hall and viewed a 1,000-year-old Viking ship.

"We found the Norwegians a very cultural people and lovers of music," the students agree.

Director Jesse Peterson and his wife, who is serving as reporter for the tour, were the guests of Karsten Ekorness, soloist for the state-owned broadcasting company in Norway. He took Director Peterson and some of the students to a recording session of the Oslo Philharmonic Orchestra.

Harry Kveibek, principal trumpet player of the Oslo Philharmonic, accompanied the Evangel wind ensemble as soloist in their second concert in Norway. Two thousand people a night attended the performances.

After the second concert, Karsten Ekorness entertained the Evangel students at a Norwegian dinner. The people dressed in native costumes, provided Norwegian folk music, and showed colored slides of Norway.

The students say they were surprised at the number of Norwegians who spoke English. They could be waited on in every store. All the young people in Norwegian schools study English. One of their hosts commented, "You English-speaking people don't have to learn any other language. English is universal, but the rest of us have to learn other languages in order to communicate."

The ensemble and chorus spent three days in Helsinki, Finland and performed four times at the World Pentecostal Conference, which was in session there. Ten thousand people from all over the world were at the conference.

The musicians say the Finns were perhaps the most "different" people of any they met on the tour. Living in the shadow of the Soviet Union seems to leave its mark. They are a very solemn people and seldom smile. Even the children were not jovial. The songs they sang were mostly in a minor key.

The musicians also gave two concerts to American servicemen in Germany. At the Heidelberg Army post they enjoyed being with Americans again, and eating such things as strawberry shortcake and iced tea with real ice cubes. The steaks in the Army mess hall were so delicious that half the male chorus wanted to join the Army on the spot.

The second concert for the U. S. government was at Kaiserslautern. There they spent half a day recording music for the Armed Forces Radio.

The students say their tour taught them to value one thing above all else—their passports, permitting them to return home.
